Two Man Movers Offers Free Move To Couple In Need

Salt Lake City, April 30, 2010 – Bart Kadleck is the newest recipient of Two Man Movers free move program. Each month, Two Man Movers chooses one family in need from their program to move at little to no cost. Two Man Movers are moving Kadleck and his wife on May 5, for free - a $750 value.

Two Man Mover's free move program provides discounted prices to applying families. Any family struggling financially is encouraged to apply for a free move. Each application is reviewed by the owner of Two Man Movers and his staff, and is based on the family with the most legitimate need.

Two Man Movers free move program established its sixth month of service with Kadleck's move. Applicants apply for the program by sending in an e-mail to the company, explaining their current situation and why they deserve a free move.

Kadleck contacted Two Man Movers without prior knowledge of their free move program, but was encouraged by Two Man Mover's owner Matt DuVall to enter apply for the free move program after hearing of his hardships.

Kadleck, who served as a professional pilot before being diagnosed with Parkinson Disease, lives in a rental home with his wife, living off of disability pay. They felt surprised when a bank representative showed up at their door because their mortgage payments hadn't been paid.

Kadleck discovered his landlord pocketed his rent instead of passing it on to the bank. The bank soon took over the financial situation, but the Kadlecks living situation did not improve. The bank refused to fix the Kadleck's broken furnace in the middle of winter and the water company sent notice that the home's water would be turned off because their landlord had not made their payments.

Without any water or heat, and a stolen deposit, Kadleck decided to move. Kadleck chose Two Man Movers based on the company's experience and affordable prices.

The level of help provided in the free move program reflects each applicant's financial situations and needs. A member of Two Man Movers staff notifies applicants if they are eligible for the program, and an appointment for a walk-through of their home occurs to see what services are needed.

Two Man Movers is a professional Utah based moving company connected with Steven World Wide Van Lines. Two Man Movers began in 1998, and now services more than 1,500 moves each year.
